Your gift ... is on its way

The famous Scandinavian catalogue store flatpak seems in good health, but is it? Rumours abound, and an inside 'colleague' has hidden a series of clues within the pages of the otherwise innocuous furniture catalogue. Conveniently, they have left a website trail to help eagle-eyed shoppers solve the many puzzles, and see if they can uncover the mysterious goings-on before anyone else does...

Matt and Stephen form The Escapages, a publisher of interactive puzzle books, all with a strong narrative theme. Their books Miracle 47, Prisoner 7, Arrival, Escape The Compound and Vice Versa have become internationally-popular puzzle escape books, but their next one is a little different.

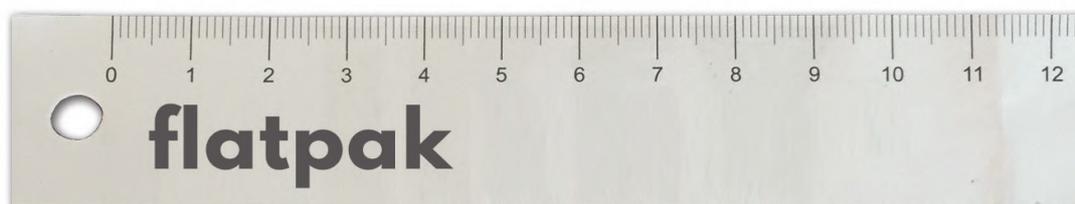

Puzzles are everywhere, as are catalogues. Early in 2019, an idea was formed - what if there was a puzzle book, disguised as a Scandinavian furniture catalogue, where there was a logic puzzle hidden on every single page? It would have to be a good length, use gorgeous full-colour photographs and images, look almost identical to other catalogues you may have on your coffee table and, most importantly, have a really strong narrative arc hidden within the puzzles.

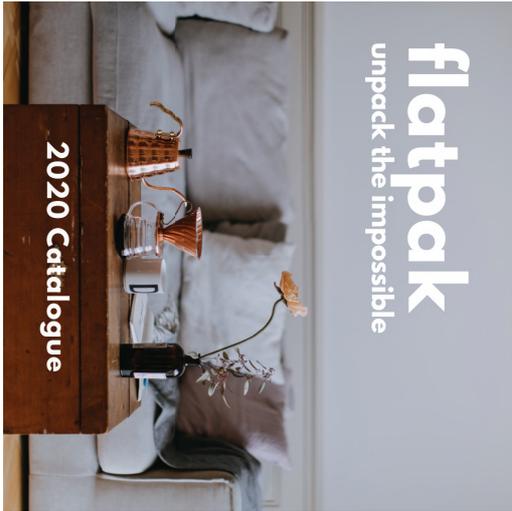

In order to bring this to life, they embarked on a Kickstarter campaign to fund a print run of these beautiful puzzle books. It has been overwhelmingly successful and wonderful people like your very good friend / relation have supported it, buying you a copy.

We aim to send this out in March 2020. In the meantime, we decided not to leave you hanging and in the true spirit of the flatpak universe, have provided you with your very own miniature kit version as a taster.

Some assembly is required.

unpack the impossible

flatpak, the renowned Scandinavian furniture company is delighted to present its latest catalogue of designer items.

Is all it appears however? Carefully concealed within each page is a logic, number, symbol, code or word puzzle, which unravels into a message, which needs to urgently be uncovered.

Use your tiny pencil, any browser and some lateral thinking to solve the problems, check them on the Escapages website, and keep a note of any clues as you uncover them to expose the conspiracy.

No meatballs will be harmed whilst solving these puzzles.
